REPORT ON THE CENSUS ENUMERATION MADE IN THE COLONY OF MAURITIUS
AND ITS DEPENDENCIES ON THE
NIGHT OF 31ST. MARCH 1911.

1. In accordance with Ordinance No. 2 of 1910, a Census of the Population of the Colony of Mauritius and its Dependencies was made on the night of Friday the 31st. of March 1911, from which it appears that the total resident population of the Colony, including the small adjacent Islands, amounted to 368,791 persons, showing a decrease of 2,232 on the Enumeration made on the 1st. of April 1901.

2. The population in barracks was returned as 1,602, of which 1,333 were given as belonging to the regular forces: 34 officers and men, residing out of barracks, were enumerated in the general population.

3. The population of the Dependencies amounted to 6,690 bringing the total population of the Colony, exclusive of foreign shipping, up to 377,083 persons.—199,138 males and 177,945 females.

4. Comparative statements showing the results of all previous Census Enumerations will be found in Tables I and II of the Statistical Abstracts.

5. In the general summaries which are given in this report, unless otherwise stated, the resident population of Mauritius and the adjacent islets alone is dealt with exclusive of the population of the Dependencies, of the Military in barracks, and of foreign shipping.

§ I.—Position of Mauritius and its Dependencies.

6. The Island of Mauritius is situated in the Indian Ocean between the Latitude of  $19^{\circ}.50'$  and  $20^{\circ}.31'$  South and Longitude  $57^{\circ}.18'$  and  $57^{\circ}.48'$  East of Greenwich. The total area of the main island is 716 square miles.

There are 23 small Islets round the coast, the names and areas of which are as follows:

Port Louis.

Flat Island ...	...	...	...	626 acres
Gabriel Island ...	...	...	...	104 "
Pigeon Rock Islands ...	...	...	...	2 "
Barkly Island ...	...	...	...	3 "

9. The Census returns of persons residing within the limits of the jurisdiction of the various town boards and municipalities having been dealt with separately at the Census Enumeration of 31st. March 1911, the number of persons per square mile for each District has been determined both inclusive and exclusive of the principal towns, and the results are collected below :

District or Town.	Area.	Population.		Persons per square mile.
		1901.	1911.	1901.	1911.
Port Louis (within Municipallimits).	Sq. miles 2'1.	39,036	41,557	18,589	19,789

Remaining areas ... ..	693'9.	273,464	277,674	394'1	400'2

10. The population in the various Estate camps under the control of the Protector of Immigrants, is compared with the population in the towns and villages below :

	1901.	1911.	Excess of 1911.
Estates ... ..	99,444	91,372	-8,072
Towns and Villages ... ..	271,578	277,419	+5,841

The details will be found in Table V of the Statistical Abstracts (pp. xl to xliii).

These returns show a considerable falling off in the Estate population since the 1901 Census.

§ III.—Constitution of the Population.

11. The population of Mauritius consists mainly of Indian-Immigrants and their descendants which form at the present time about 70 % of the total population.

The remainder comprises a small number of Europeans and Chinese, and a mixed race, principally of African origin, descendants of the slave population originally imported for agricultural purposes.

N. B.—The limits of the various Municipal Corporations do not appear to have been strictly followed in the Census of 1901 and there is, in consequence, an element of uncertainty in the above comparison.

12. A feature of the 1911 Census—and indeed, strictly speaking, of the Census before it—is the absorption of the so-called African class into the General Population. In 1901 the enumerated population under this class was returned as 643, but the Commissioner considering this erroneous, appears to have increased it by 2,000.

The negro type is still to be found, however, in considerable numbers, round the coast; but except in the case of the more ancient members of the community it is doubtful whether the individuals bearing the African characteristics can be considered otherwise than as recurring types.

In the 1911 Census no attempt was made to enumerate them separately.

13. The classification of the population is effected principally by means of the surnames as, for obvious reasons, it cannot be made a subject of direct census enquiry, and the notes added by the sub-enumerators were in many cases found to be defective. In the case of the Indians and Chinese no serious error in classification has, so far, arisen; but the same control cannot be applied to the General Population. It is probable, however, that in the future some further control will be necessary even in the case of the Indian Population. Two influences are at work—inter-marriages and Christian baptism—which must inevitably render classification by names defective.

There is some evidence, corroborated by the occupation statistics, that Indian women tend either to marry or cohabit with Creole husbands and further reference will be made to this when examining the occupation returns. (see paragraph 38).

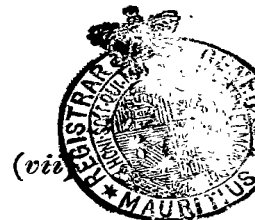

14. With regard to the Indian Immigrant, it is becoming more difficult every year to distinguish him from the Indo-Mauritian. The return of Immigrants at the recent Census was so evidently defective that the class has been designated “Other Indians” i.e., Indians born out of the Colony.

There are probably several reasons for the defective nature of this return. In former years, when the Estate Population was more numerous, a direct control was exercised by the estate managers, the origin of each individual being noted in the estate books. At the present time many of the Immigrants are landed proprietors, and, as such, some of them may have considered it to their advantage to return themselves as natives of the Colony or as passengers. Whatever the cause, however, there can be no doubt that the enumeration of the real Immigrant population is erroneous, the total amounting to only 20,300 as follows:—

				Male.	Female.
New Immigrants	...	...	...	1,122	275
Old Immigrants	...	...	...	13 493	5,410

whereas the return of Other Indians not born in the Colony amounted to 35,396, including the Immigrants.

CENSUS OF MAURITIUS AND ITS DEPENDENCIES, 1911.

The classification in the 1911 Census has, in consequence, been confined to :

General Population	...	...	...	...	...	107,432
(Europeans, white, mixed and coloured)
Indo-Mauritian	...	...	...	...	...	222,301
Other Indians	...	...	...	...	...	35,396
Chinese	...	...	...	...	...	3,662
						368,791

The ratio of each to the Total Population at each Census Enumeration since 1846 is as follows :

Census Year.	General Population	Indo-Mauritian.	Other Indians.	Chinese.
1846	% 64.5		% 35.5	%

§ IV.—Sex Distribution.

15. As was noted in the Preliminary Report on the Census dated 19th. June 1911, a rapid change has occurred in the sex distribution of the population. From Table II p. (iii) of the Statistical Abstracts it will be seen that in the General Population (including the Chinese) the females now exceed the males for the first time since the Census of 1846 ; while in the Indian Population the excess of males, which amounted to 90,596 in 1861 owing to the introduction of Indian Immigrants, has fallen to 20,251.

The number of males and females in the General Population and the Chinese, respectively, at each Census since 1861 are given below :

Census Year.	General Population.		Chinese.
	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.
1861	59,796	56,068	1,550	2
1871	49,487	48,010	2,284	3
1881	53,754	53,569	3,549	9
1891	55,397	56,120	3,142	9
1901	52,995	55,427	3,457	58
1911	51,808	55,624	3,313	349

The ratio of males to females in the three main classes of the population at each Census Enumeration since 1851 was as follows :

Census Year.	General Population.		Indian.		Chinese.
	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.
1851	1'15		4'69
1861	1'07		2'78		775'0
1871	1'03		1'90		761'3
1881	1'00		1'55		394'3
1891	'99		1'36		349'1
1901	'96		1'23		59'6
1911	'93		1'17		9'5

§ V.—Age Distribution of the Population.

16. The Age Distribution of the population classified in quinquennial periods according to Districts, Class and Sex, and in each year of age for the whole Colony, in Class and Sex, will be found in Table VI (p. xliv).

For some reason, not altogether apparent, the age grouping in the 1901 Census was thrown forward one year, the population being returned in quinquennial periods exclusive of 100 and under 1, so that no direct comparison is possible either with the present or previous Census returns, or with those of other countries, the individual years having been omitted altogether.

17. In the following table, comparison is made between the quinquennial groups for the 1911 Census and the corresponding groups for that of 1891. An actuarial graduation will be necessary before comparison can be effected with 1901. This has been commenced.

65-69	2,909	1,924	- 985
70 and over	2,017	3,077	+ 1,060

18. The number of persons over 70 years of age at each Census since 1871 in the Indian Population was as follows :

Year.	Number of persons over 70 years of age.	Increase during decade.
1871	498
1881	1,064	+ 566
1891	2,174	+ 1,110
1911	3,623	+ 724

whereas in the General Population it was :

Year.	Number of persons over 70 years of age.	Increase during decade.
1871	1,966
1881	1,982	+ 16
1891	2,092	+ 110
1911	2,106	+ 7

19. From the foregoing comparative statement it will be seen that there has been a steady progression in the higher ages (over 70) of the "Other Indian" class ; a condition which is evidently a characteristic feature of an old immigrant population.

20. An examination of the returns for each year of age reveals the existence of the well-known errors on the 5's and 10's due to a tendency to state the ages in round numbers. The peculiarities of the age distribution are brought out in the curves (Plate I) which accompany this report. The question of the elimination of these errors will be dealt with in a future report, but they do not affect the progression in the higher ages which has such an important bearing on the various social and economic problems arising in the administrative work of the Colony, among which may be specially cited questions connected with the death-rates and poor relief.

§ VI.—Civil Condition of the Population.

21. The Civil Condition of the population classified under Class, Sex and Decennial Age Periods is shown in Table VII. The large number of un-married persons is a consequence of the practice among the lower classes, both of the Indian and General Population, of contracting religious marriages ; that is to say they do not appear before the Civil Status Officers and hence, under the Civil Status laws of Mauritius, are not legally married.

It must not, however, be considered that this large class of the population is living in immorality. In order to understand correctly their condition it is necessary to take into consideration the customs, habits and origin of the various races concerned. The position of the Indian population in Mauritius is altogether anomalous. Indian immigrants, married according to Indian customs, on producing a certificate to this effect before the Protector of Immigrants are considered legally married and enjoy the full rights and privileges of persons married under the existing Civil Status laws in Mauritius. The marriages of these same Indians performed according to the Indian customs in Mauritius, are not so recognised. In the eyes of their co-religionists, however, their condition is perfectly legitimate and their marriages cannot, in consequence, be relegated to the class of irregular unions. Even in considering the numerous cases which evidently exist in which no form of ceremony, religious or otherwise, has been associated with the assumption of the duties of the married state, allowance should be made for the widely differing moral stand-point of West and East. The unions are, in the great majority of cases, stable, and to all intents and purposes — except in questions relating to successions—fulfil the objects of legal marriage.

22. In considering on the other hand the case of the General Population, it should be remembered that under the régime of forced labour, before the Edict of Emancipation, the slaves were not permitted to contract legal marriage. The Catholic clergy under these circumstances rendered inestimable service in regularising, if not in legalising, the unions of the slaves and these ideas have to a great extent survived to the present day.

(xi)

Due allowance should be made for these special circumstances when considering the Census returns of Civil Condition for Mauritius.

A large amount of information on this subject was collected during the recent Census, but as it does not form part of the Census work proper it will be dealt with at a later date.

23. For the first time in the Census reports of Mauritius the return of Civil Condition has been drawn up in age periods.

Legal marriage cannot be contracted by female under the age of 15, nor by males under the age of 18, except by special licence which is very seldom applied for. The statement of married persons should be interpreted in the light of these legal restrictions. There is no doubt that, in spite of strict instructions concerning the information required, a certain number of persons have returned themselves as legally married when, in reality, they have only contracted a religious marriage. The errors arising from this source, however, do not seriously affect the results except in the early years.

The number of persons returned as Married or Widowed at each year of age between the ages of 12 and 19 are given below.

The Percentage error for the Chinese Population is naturally large.

These results are shown graphically in Plates II & III appended to this report. The curves present some features of considerable interest and the results will be more fully treated when the Indian marriage question is dealt with at a later date. In the marriage curves it will be noticed that the males reach a maximum between the ages of 50 and 59 and still show a large percentage even at the ages of "90 and over", due, most probably, to re-marriages of widowers. In the curves of widows and widowers for the General Population, the former shows a steady rise throughout, while the latter reaches a maximum at "80-89" and falls rapidly in the ages over 90. It is curious to note that the curve of Indian widowers shows the same characteristics as that of widows in the General Population, while the curve of Indian widows agrees in its main features with that of widowers in the General population.

25. The number of marriages between persons of different Civil Condition during the last 10 years, as derived from the Registrar General's Reports, is shown below.

Bachelors — Spinsters	...	...	...	...	9370	85.8 %

0.9 % are marriages between divorced persons.

26. The percentage of Married, and Widowed Persons in each Class and Sex as returned at the last two Census enumerations are compared below.

27. The population is returned under Place of Birth, Class and Sex in Table VIII pages (lvi) to (lviii). The question of nationality in this as in former Census returns is not altogether satisfactory, and judging from the returns in Table VI of the 1901 Census report, the nationalities appear to have been determined by the compilers from the place of birth. An examination of the Table (1901) will show that the publication of the returns in the extended form there adopted is redundant and it has been considered more rational to collect them for the whole Island under class and sex. The results in this form are easier of interpretation.

28. A large number of the Chinese as well as all French priests on the Civil Establishment are naturalised British subjects.

29. The number of persons born in the United Kingdom, exclusive of the Military living out of barracks, amounted to 279 or 0.08% of the total population (.25% of the General Population.) of these only 169 were males (0.31% of the male General Population.)

30. Persons of European birth, not including those born in the United Kingdom, numbered 265, or .07% of the total Population.

The returns as compared with those for previous Census Enumerations are :

Place of birth ... ..	1861	1871	1881	1891	1901	1911
United Kingdom ... ..	1,331	965	548	408	422	279

Australasia... ..	16	38	21	30	34	27

31. It will be noticed that the foreign element is fast disappearing from the population, the number of persons born in the United Kingdom and other parts of Europe having decreased in notable proportions since 1861.

§ VIII.—Occupations.

32. An attempt has been made to treat the occupation question more fully than has been done in former Census Enumerations. The classification adopted is that given in the Report on the "Census of the British Empire 1901" and the returns will be found in Tables IX to XI, under Class and Sex in certain specified Age Periods, for each of the 23 Main Orders, and under Sex and Age Periods for each of the different Sub-orders.

33. In order to permit comparison with the previous Census, the occupation returns given on p.p. 126-146 of the report for 1901 have been collected in the following tables, under the 23 Main Orders, arranged in Class and Sex and compared with the returns for 1911.

34. The Workers or Breadwinners, as distinguished from dependents, were returned as 139,120—62% of the total Male Population and 11% of the Female.

The distribution in Sex and Age Periods is shown below :

WORKERS OR BREAD-WINNERS.
Age Period.	Male.	Female.	Total.
10 to 19	18,663	3,334	21,997
20 to 49	82,085	11,719	93,804
50 to 59	11,160	2,234	13,394
60 and over	7,615	1,646	9,261
not stated	532	132	664
Total ... ..	120,055	19,065	139,120

35. An attempt was made to obtain reliable information concerning the number of persons employing labour, workers on own account etc. but the statements were unreliable, owing to an unforeseen complication arising from the concurrent use of the English and French language. There was considerable confusion between the French expression employé and the English word employer and all attempts at classification had to be abandoned, as there was evidence that the abbreviation empl had been used for both words indiscriminately.

36. The classification of the occupations in age periods has cleared away much uncertainty with regard to the return "Occupation not stated". Out of a total not stated of 62,487 males, 55,968 (or 90%) are included in the two Age Periods "below 10" and from "10 to 19"; while of the 148,222 females who have not stated, 72,832 (or 49%) are included in these Age Periods; 22,715 are married women over 20 years of age, and a very large proportion of the others are married religiously i.e. living in concubinage.

37. Although some of the changes which are apparent under individual headings may be ascribed partly to differences in the method of classification* yet the main divisions reveal a very marked tendency on the part of the Indian Population to replace the General Population under the three main occupational classes—Professional, Commercial and Industrial—while there is a serious decrease in the Indian Agricultural Class.

38. The females employed in Agriculture are steadily increasing. In 1861 they numbered 1,083 while at the recent Census, 7,384 returned themselves under this Order. It will, moreover, be noticed that 176 females appear in this Order under the heading "General Population"—a result due, in all probability, either to inter-marriages between the Creole males and Indian females or to Christian Baptism, as has already been noted. (see para. 13 p. vi).

Some of the Sub-Orders require explanation for their correct interpretation.

* For instance in 1901 the Chinese shop-keepers were classified partly under Order 5 and partly under Order 22, but it is evident that they should appear only under the latter i.e. "undefined shop-keepers". They retail groceries, merceries, ironmongery, tobacco etc. etc., and cannot be classified under any of the well-defined commercial occupations.

Under the heading, Government Servants, are included all persons who returned themselves as such without specifying the branch to which they were attached. When the additional information was given and their work was of a professional character—Surveyor, Doctor, Lawyer etc—they were classified under the profession to which they belong and not under the heading Government Servants. If it is required to obtain the number of persons employed by Government this information should be sought for from the official Establishment returns.

In ORDER 4, Domestic Service, a large number of coachmen did not state whether they were domestic coachmen or not, and it is probable that, of the number returned under ORDER 6/2, some at least belong properly to ORDER 4/2. The same may be said of the Guardians (House) some of whom have undoubtedly gone into 22/4.

In ORDER 7, Agriculture, have been collected all persons working on Estates and farms whether as Carpenters, Mechanics, Artisans etc, or engaged in purely agricultural pursuits, so that the return gives the number of persons directly engaged in the work on the Estates. To compare with previous Census Enumerations it will be necessary to redistribute the returns under their respective headings, and this has been done in the comparative tables on pages (lxxix) to (lxxxvii) of the Statistical Abstracts. When the artisans, mechanics, and others not engaged in purely agricultural pursuits, or the transport of agricultural produce, are eliminated from Order 7, the excess of 1,492 under the heading General Population — p. (xv) — is reduced to +388, and the defect in the Industrial Occupations to —49.

ORDER 11, Jewellers, includes a large number (346) of Indian jewellers and sellers of bracelets and cheap Indian jewellery. There are only two large jewellery establishments in the Colony which can be compared in any way with the jewellers in European cities.

In ORDER 12 it will be noticed that only one person was returned as a Builder. Nearly all Mauritian dwellings are built of wood and their construction is generally supervised either by the owner or a job-contractor employing the required number of carpenters and masons. Even the more substantial stone buildings are often erected in this way by contractors, of whom 49 were enumerated (see Order 22) at the recent Census.

ORDER 14. The number of Potters is small, there being only one pottery establishment in the Colony.

The Newspaper Sellers in ORDER 17 do not hold the same position as news-agents in the large centres. They are composed mostly of newspaper boys who sell the papers at the railway stations, and it appears probable that a certain number of the youths who loiter round the Central Station in Port Louis have returned themselves under this heading.

The callings specified under ORDERS 18 to 20 also demand some explanation. Few of them are strictly comparable with those similarly designated in Europe. There are no callings of a clerical nature in Mauritius which can provide a means of livelihood for the female Creole Population, and nearly all the un-married and widowed females in necessitous circumstances earn a precarious living as sempstresses, dressmakers and occasional aids to the better class of the population. Most of these persons would return themselves as modiste or couturière.

A certain number of the middle class also retail merceries and millinery, with or without a licence, and these also would appear in this Class.

Under the heading, Barbers and hair dressers, (ORDER 19) are included a large number of itinerant Indian hair-cutters. There are very few important hair-dressing establishments, and such as exist are to be found principally in Port Louis.

Under ORDER 20 have been classified a certain number of persons who would probably be termed street-sellers or hawkers in more important centres. In Mauritius, however, they take the place of the dairyman, the fishmonger, the poulterer and the greengrocer, and hence should be classified under these headings, especially as most of them have small shops or stalls near the boutiques or chinamen's shops.

The other Orders call for no special remark and are, on the whole, comparable with similar workers in other countries. Occasionally it will be noticed that some occupations are divided and included partially under several headings. For instance only two pilots are shewn under 6/3 whereas it is known that there are at least four, the remaining two most probably appearing under the general heading, Government Servants.

Errors arising from such sources cannot, however, be serious, as great care has been exercised during the work of compilation to classify according to the surroundings.

39. The classification of the population under religions has been restricted to eight, as indicated below. The returns in each class of the population are compared with the corresponding returns at the previous Census in the following tables.

40. The changes since the last Census Enumeration are, on the whole, unimportant, the principal occurring in the Chinese Population which evidences a tendency to conversion to the principles of Christianity, and especially toward Roman Catholicism.

This may be due, in part, to the inclusion of a certain number of Creole women, or at least half-cast Chinese females, but it is evidently in great measure due to bona-fide conversion, as the falling off in the other Pagan (i.e. Buddhist) clearly shows. Apart from this class of the population the general features of the changes in the religious status of the population are—a slight but marked increase among Roman Catholics in all classes; a slight falling off among the Anglicans and Scotch Church, with a corresponding slight increase among the other Protestants.

§ X.— Education.

41 An attempt was made to ascertain the number of persons, over 4 years of age, able to read and write or to read only, in English or French ; but the problem proved to be one of greater difficulty than was at first anticipated. It was difficult to weed out the persons who could only sign their names—and they are numerous—so that the figures can only be considered approximate and are probably over, rather than under, the correct value. The information was collected by the Enumerators during the preliminary House Enumeration and, in consequence, a somewhat large proportion have not stated. The returns are given below :

Class of Population.	Number over 4 years giving the information required.	Able to read only.		Able to read and write.
		Total.	%	Total.	%
General Population ...	82,334	35,361	42·9	34,553	41·9
Indian Population ...	195,446	3,820	2·0	3,305	1·7

The number of children between the ages of 5 and 19 attending school will be found in table X. They are compared with the previous Census below :

School.	1901.		1911.		Excess of 1911.
	Male.	Female.	Male.	Female.	Male.	Female.
GENERAL POPULATION.
Royal College ...	389	...	279	...	— 110	...
Government Schools...	3,929	2,560	2,356	1,652	— 1,573	— 908
Aided Schools ...	2,226	1,944	2,162	1,968	— 64	+ 24
Private Schools ...	737	809	498	663	— 239	— 146
Receiving Tuition at home ...	68	105	76	147	+ 8	+ 42
School not specified ...	...	...	449	281	...	...
INDIAN POPULATION.
Royal College ...	19	...	38	...	+ 19	...
Government Schools ...	2,773	595	2,289	357	— 484	+ 238
Aided Schools ...	1,257	382	1,376	410	+ 119	+ 28
Private School ...	233	92	278	129	+ 45	+ 37
Receiving tuition at home ...	33	9	23	22	— 10	+ 13
School not specified ...	...	...	420	78	...	...

These results indicate a falling off in the school attendance of the General Population and a slight increase in that of the Indian male children. Although, as already stated, no direct comparison with the previous Census at different age periods is at present possible, there is evidence of a decrease in the General Population, at these ages, of about 1,100 and a corresponding increase of about 500 in the Indian population, so that the changes noted above are probably only apparent.

§ XI.—Infirmities.

42. These returns call for no special remark. As on former occasions, the difficulties in the way of a correct enumeration were great, and very little weight should be attached to the decrease shown. The total number of infirms amounted to 1,806, showing a decrease of 568 on the corresponding returns for the year 1901.

§ XII.—Dependencies.

43. The only Dependency of Mauritius to which it is necessary to refer specially is Rodrigues. The population of the Minor Dependencies is more or less a floating one and the results published in the Statistical Abstracts give all the information which is necessary from the point of view of the Census Enumeration.

44. The total population of the minor Dependencies amounted to 1,861—1,097 males and 764 females, as against 1,697—1,077 males and 620 females—in 1901.

45. The returns for the principal Dependency, Rodrigues, show that the population has increased by 1,667 and now numbers 4,829 as follows :—

Class of Population.	1901.	1911.	Excess of 1911.
General Population ...	3,100	4,667	+ 1,567
Indo-Mauritian ...	22	102	+ 80
Other Indians ...	34	36	+ 2
Chinese ...	6	24	+ 18

46. The Civil Condition and Occupations of the population of Rodrigues are compared with the corresponding returns at the previous Census in the following tables :

§ XIII.—Education.

47. Five hundred and eighty-nine persons above 4 years of age, (13% of the population) were returned as being able to read and write. The number of children between the ages of 5 and 19 attending school amounted to 216 as follows :

			Males	Females

§ XIV.—Enumeration of Houses.

48. The result of the House Enumeration will be found in the Statistical Abstracts. The total number of buildings, inhabited and uninhabited, amounted to 114,983 as against 93,031 in 1901.

§ XV.—Conclusion.

49. The enumeration staff consisted of 12 Superintendents, 72 Enumerators and 285 Sub-Enumerators.

The compilation staff comprised in all 54 persons—36 card-writers, 7 card-compilers, 4 checkers and 7 additional clerks, copyists etc.

The schedules were completely revised and annotated by the 15th of July 1911, and the card-writing commenced and completed in about 20 days, after which the writers were dismissed. Checking and card-compilation were carried on simultaneously and the first manuscript was sent to press on November 1st, 1911.

The total cost of the Census amounted to Rs 39,810 distributed as follows :

Enumeration ... ..	Rs. 24,416
Compilation ... ..	10,521
Printing ... ..	4,873
	Total Rs. 39,810
